bloom ferruccio laviani

A lamp as valuable as Murano glass, as irreverent as a rock opera. Bloom blossoms forth in a scintillating and lavish cascade of crystalline flowers. Bloom is composed of a polycarbonate tubular framework entirely encrusted with tiny double corolla transparent polycarbonate flowers. The result is an industrially produced lamp with the form and stylistic complexities of the unique hand-made artefact. Bloom comes in an original hanging version: a cylindrical version suggestive of the silhouette of an hour glass figure. There are three single-colors for the lamp: total transparency and opaque white for a refined ethereal effect, plus a sexy pink and black mix. A series of bulbs positioned along the internal framework diffuses beams of light through the petals and reflects off their faceted surfaces radiating a thousand reflections. A new way of interpreting the traditional lamp with that special added touch. Veritable work of art that furnish and fill a room all on its own creating an atmosphere of sparkling splendor.
