

palace sandro santantonio

Thanks to the contrast of a rigorous structure and its soft finishes, Palace aims to represent a new concept to live and assemble one's own living place. It's made of two seats, an armrest, three backrests and a pouf with or without castors which can be freely combined among themselves in order to offer endless possible creations. Metal supporting structure and elastic belts. Polyurethane padding. Leather or fabric upholstery with quilt seat cushion. The different modules are linked among themselves thanks to metal joints which make it easier moving them from one place to the other.
