A steel bar with a vaguely industrial feel, onto which one can fasten elements made of high character materials: wood, leather, fabric and metal painted in primary geometric forms that give rise to always different architectures, both fascinating and surprising. This seating system that lets you create any solution from a simple linear bench, to an angular two-seater, to a peaceful island as a waiting area, or designed for relaxation and conviviality. Each composition can be used as stand-alone or in groups, in an effort to simplify and at the same time enhance the public spaces of any size, in keeping with its architecture, its routes and its functions.

materials:

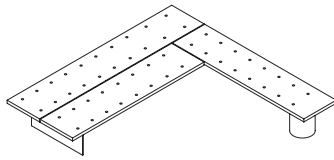

Base in ash wood with painted metal legs and table in white, black or grey. Marble table in matt Carrara. Upholstered cushions.
