The result of this encounter between design and art is a sofa of ample and deep seating space, ideal for seating three people, and bearing the signs, the codes and the branding of Valerio Berruti's painting. The name of this multiple produced in 250 numbered pieces each version is Summertime - which evokes the title of one of the most famous songs by George Gershwin. The first verse of the introductory text for Gufram and Valerio Berruti becomes the subtitle of the piece "... and living it easy", thus creating a pun with the term "living", which is not stressed, as it happens, on the other hand, in the text of the song: "living" in English, as used to indicate the living room - the couch. The sofa Sumertime - produced entirely in Italy - uses polyurethane foam (a material common to all Gufram Multiples), water based paint and wax crayons, which are then varnished and fixed with the washable Guflac® Plus paint; this, besides keeping the colours vivid through time, releases a natural delicate cinnamon and orange aroma. Thus Summertime wishes to be an instrument of delightful idleness; an invitation to the comfortable relax of the first summer days - those that still carry the scent of budding flowers; those that let us enjoy the first tepid sunny days; those of the first swims in the sea; those of the first ice-cream cones.
