

t-chair Barazzuol / Malisan

The unbroken pencil line, as found within the initial design sketch, is directly transformed into the T-chair's bent iron frame. Discreetly attached to this frame are the soft shapes of the seat and back made in wood with the option of being upholstered for comfortable seating. This play on contrasting shapes and materials is further extended into the color and fabric choices. In this way the T-chair becomes a reassuring presence, for homes and contract, which withstands the passing of time thanks to its rational and elegant personality.
